

Aging Successfully:
Older Adult Open Day 13th and 14th April 2011

The Institute of Psychological Science's aging research team opens its doors to older adults across Yorkshire. Researchers at the University of Leeds have an international reputation for their aging research. In this event we ask members of the public to help us to set our research priorities for the coming years, feedback what we have learned from our volunteer panel and give practical advice.

For two afternoons, researchers in the areas of memory, falls prevention, nutrition and successful aging will be presenting their research and giving practical advice. The event is being held at the Institute of Psychological Sciences, and is free and open to all older adults (ticket only).

About Leeds Aging Research

Leeds Memory Group has been actively working with volunteers from the local community since 2002. We are a group of researchers who are interested in improving the understanding of the aging process, with a view to inform practitioners, scientists and the older adult community about aging successfully. Our research is driven by our volunteer panel, who give their time to take part in psychological experiments. We are always interested in recruiting more people to help in our research.

For tickets please contact: Hayley Cheesebrough, Institute of Psychological Sciences, University of Leeds, LS2 9JT tel. 0113 343 5724

For other enquiries please contact: Suzi Morson, Institute of Psychological Sciences, University of Leeds, LS2 9JT tel. 0113 343 9197

The Open Day is supported by the University Knowledge Transfer Fund.